TO: The Secretary
FROM: H - J. Edward Fox g
SUBJECT: Bipartisan Leadership Breakfast - October 7,
8:30-9:30 AM, the White House

SETTING

The leadership meeting this week will discuss the President's meeting with Gorbachev and aspects of the Continuing Resolution. You will be asked to speak on the Iceland pre-summit. Jim Miller will discuss the Continuing Resolution.

BACKGROUND

Arms Control. Members of Congress should be concerned about sending their President to this or any other summit restricting the governments flexibility through restrictive legislative provisions, as recently enacted by the House. The Defense Authorization Conferees will be meeting tomorrow through the day and night with the expectation of reporting an Authorization Conference report. It is still not clear if this can be accomplished or if acceptable arms control compromises can be achieved among the Conferees or between the Conferees and the Administration.

Daniloff Release. Some Members are concerned that the agreement securing the release of Daniloff could weaken the President's hand at Rekyavik.

The Foreign Operations Members did not meet, but will have their first joint session tomorrow at 1:30.

SCENARIO

The meeting will take place in the Old Family Dining Room at the White House. The President will welcome the Congressional leaders and then ask you to discuss the agenda for the upcoming meetings in Iceland. A general discussion will follow. INFORMATION MEMORANDUM
S/S

TO: The Secretary Rich
FROM: S/P - Richard H. Solomon
SUBJECT: Remarks for Your Leadership Meeting Presentation

I have prepared the attached talking points for your use at today's leadership meeting. They reflect guidance from Charlie Hill.

As stated.

0315587030

DECLASSIFIED

- o Why the Reykjavik pre-summit? How ironic it is that just when the President seeks to build on our strength through diplomacy, the voices of despair and doom warn of a negotiated disaster. Yet if we didn't seek to negotiate our differences with the Soviets, an unregulated competition would hold much more certain dangers -- and we would lose the support of our people and allies in the process.
- o I observed at Harvard last month that some urge us to negotiate with the Soviets, but then deny us the strength to back up our positions. Others argue -- correctly in my view -- that we should never negotiate from weakness, but then assert when we are in a favorable position that we need not negotiate. The objections go round and round, while the people look to us for leadership, for the courage to make hard decisions, and for significant achievements. And that is what President Reagan intends to give them -- to continue to give them!
- o So what do we expect to achieve in Iceland? The pre-summit must be seen as an important opportunity in the unrelenting challenge of managing the complex and dangerous competition with the Soviets. It is an opportunity to test the new Soviet leadership -- which despite its youth is burdened with the vulnerabilities of a society that produces Chernobyls, exploding nuclear submarines, sluggish economic growth and a seemingly endless progression of dissidents and would-be emigres. How will they stand up against all that is right and strong in our own society and our alliance relationships? I don't believe that the Soviets, despite their military capabilities, are ten feet tall and growing; neither are we so muddle-headed or naive that we cannot pursue our security interests through a combination of defensive strength and negotiation.

- o President Reagan has led us over the past six years in rebuilding our strength, regaining our confidence in confronting the Soviet military buildup and Third World expansionism. Now is the time to cash in on our strengthened position; to see whether the new leadership in the Kremlin is prepared to deal with us and the world in a more cooperative, less aggressive manner. They have many reasons to want to do so.
- o The President has shown great vision as well as courage in dealing with the Soviets... He has seen the possibilities in our new technologies of breaking out of the cycle of offensive arms competition with Moscow. He proposed to Gorbachev, in his letter of July 25th, a revolutionary approach to stabilizing the strategic balance of terror and then making a cooperative transition to a defense-dominant world in which ballistic missiles would be eliminated.

- o It is important to us all that the President use his remaining time in office, his strong popular support, our renewed strength, and the prospect for a series of three or four encounters with Gorbachev, to see if there is the prospect of developing a more stable, cooperative relationship with the new generation of Soviet leaders.
- o The Reykjavik meeting will be an important "agenda-setting" encounter that could precipitate real momentum on a broad range of issues that can only be dealt with at the highest leadership level. It could set in motion breakthrough progress in the Geneva negotiations and lead to productive summits in Washington and Moscow -- or, it could show that the Soviets are stuck in their old ways. But we owe it to ourselves and the world to see what can be done.
- o Our technical exchanges with the Soviets these past two years -- on arms control issues, regional problems, and bilateral matters -- have boiled down the issues to a point where, as the Soviets say, only "political will" can lead to breakthroughs. The President will explore the full range of possibilities with Gorbachev in an effort to set a productive agenda for a Washington summit.

- o Arms control will be an important, but not exclusive topic. The recent Stockholm agreement on confidence-building measures shows that progress is possible. The Soviets have shown a new willingness to accept fairly intrusive verification procedures. Now we will press ahead on issues designed to enhance strategic stability and explore the possibilities for a cooperative transition to defensive systems.
- On strategic arms, we will pursue our new Geneva proposal for deep cuts. We intend to drive down the number of their "heavy" ICBMs and otherwise limit the threat to the land-based leg of the triad.
- On INF, we believe agreement is possible on significant interim reductions on a global basis.
- On defense and space, the President will go over in detail the offer to Gorbachev in his July 25th letter to sign a treaty committing both sides to phased elimination of ballistic missiles in the context of cooperative deployment of defensive systems -- if our SDI research program proves such systems to be cost effective at the margin. There is plenty of criticism around of SDI, but the technology is there; the Soviets have been working on it themselves for years; and they certainly seem worried about the prospect of our doing something significant. The President is determined to see if these defensive possibilities can be used to make an historic transition to a less MAD world.

-- On nuclear testing, the President has laid out a path for progress toward eventual elimination of nuclear testing in parallel with reductions in nuclear arms.

o The President's discussions with Gorbachev will not be limited to arms control. The causes of tension with the Soviets run the entire gamut of our relations, and we are determined to press them on all the sources of distrust and instability.

-- On regional issues, Soviet expansionism in the Third World is the source of much tension and possible confrontation. We must avoid miscalculation. The President will reiterate to Gorbachev his three point program for resolving issues like Afghanistan. He will make clear that Soviet and Cuban efforts to destabilize our hemisphere are unacceptable.

-- On human rights, the Daniloff case highlighted the impact of intolerable Soviet behavior on the relationship. The Reykjavik encounter is an important opportunity to send Gorbachev a strong message on the range of human rights issues. The Soviets must understand that their behavior against dissidents and would-be emigres remains a major source of mistrust and an obstacle to improvement in East-West relations.

- o And what if our effort doesn't succeed? Dynamic Mr. Gorbachev and his attractive wife may turn out to be no more capable of "new thinking" than Mr. Khrushchev was of burying Stalin. But now is the time to try to turn our strength into achievements; and the President has shown us the way. And because of all we have accomplished this past six years, if the Soviets don't respond, we are in a favorable position to safeguard our interests with our own assets, and with our allies. But if we don't try, neither the American people nor our allies will forgive us.

THEMES ON U.S.-SOVIET RELATIONS

REYKJAVIK MEETING

- Private, informal session to review agenda for General Secretary Gorbachev's trip to the United States.
  - o no substitute for Gorbachev visit to the United States.
- Gorbachev proposed, President accepted.
  - o President wanted to stress commitment to real progress in U.S.-Soviet relations.
- Potential for progress exists. Iceland meeting could give things an extra push.
- Soviets will focus on arms control. We'll insist on balance, discussion of full agenda: arms control, human rights, regional conflicts, bilateral issues.
- But no agreements expected: meeting is preparatory, should highlight areas for potential further progress.
  - o This meeting is part of the ongoing process.

HUMAN RIGHTS

- Daniloff case highlighted impact of human rights questions on broader relationship, their importance to Americans.
- Reykjavik: an opportunity to send strong message of human rights.
- U.S. has welcomed Soviet steps since Geneva to resolve a few "big name" cases -- divided families and the like.
- But no progress on broader human rights issues. Jewish emigration at lowest level in two decades. Suppression of dissidents continues.
- Besides concern for individual victims of Soviet human rights abuses, West has long-term interests at stake.
- Soviets must come to grips with reality -- abuses of fundamental human rights remain a major source of mistrust and an obstacle to better East-West relations.

ARMS CONTROL

- There's been some motion on arms control.
- U.S. welcomes the recent agreement in Stockholm. If the Soviets fully implement these new confidence-building measures, agreement should strengthen security and stability in Europe.
- On strategic arms, U.S. has tabled new proposal in Geneva. Reflects President's willingness to work on interim agreement despite preference for 50% cuts as agreed at the last summit.
  - New position reflects work over the summer which brought some narrowing of differences on structure, overall numbers for an agreement.
  - Have to see if Soviets ready to meet our concerns about deep cuts in ballistic missile warheads.
- Both sides see INF as promising. U.S. has tabled new idea for interim agreement towards our preferred solution of eliminating longer-range INF missiles globally.
  - Several major issues outstanding; cutting large Soviet force of SS-20s in Asia; constraining threat from shorter-range INF missiles; and effective verification.
- On Defense and Space, President outlined our new offer in his UN speech.
  - Proposal addresses stated Soviet concerns. Creates framework for stable, joint transition to greater reliance on defense, if our research leads to technology that meets our criteria.
- On nuclear testing, President has marked out a path for progress toward eventual elimination of nuclear testing, in parallel with reductions of nuclear arms.
  - Results now depend on whether Soviets want to take realistic steps or just repeat their old position.
  - First step is to agree on verification improvements so we can ratify treaties worked out in 1970s.

DECLASSIFIED

DECLASSIFIED

- Some movement on aspects of chemical weapons ban, but Soviets have to deal seriously with extensive inspection arrangements needed to make a ban work. Experts talks on CW proliferation useful complement to work on CW ban.
- Verification is key to MBFR. No satisfactory response to West's major move last December.

REGIONAL ISSUES

- Have established extensive dialogue on regional issues, important means to avoid miscalculations.
- At the UN this year, President again outlined framework for solving five major regional conflicts.
- Afghanistan, other conflicts remain very troubling to East-West relations.
- At UN-sponsored negotiations on Afghanistan, central question is realistic timetable.
  - o Possible token withdrawals this week won't change need for realistic timetable.
  - o There are some indications that even a token pull-out will be compensated for by new developments.
- Regional conflicts are complex, involve many players; don't expect big breakthroughs.

BILATERAL ISSUES

- Since Geneva, considerable expansion of US-Soviet bilateral relationship.
- Some interesting prospects in this area: exchanges, solving consular problems, limited cooperation in other fields.
  - o we will insist, as always, on mutual benefit.
- Expect this work to continue, but pace inevitably affected by overall state of relationship.

Civil Aviation: Pan Am and Aeroflot resumed service between US and USSR. Post-KAL:NOPAC agreement now in force.

Consulates: Agreement in principle to open consulates in Kiev and New York.

DECLASSIFIED

Cultural Exchanges: Agreement signed at Geneva has led to increase in exchanges of students, professors, performing artists and exhibits.

People-to-People: President interested in increasing direct contacts, particularly involving young people.

CONCLUSION

- We want a serious, substantive meeting.
- If dates can be set for Gorbachev visit to U.S., that's fine, but not the main thing, which is serious talks.

HARD Q'S AND A'S: REYKJAVIK MEETING

Q. Why have you decided to meet in Iceland instead of in the U.S.? Didn't you agree in Geneva last year that the next U.S.-Soviet summit would be held in the U.S.? By agreeing to a location outside the U.S. aren't you caving in to the Soviets and perhaps providing Gorbachev with a negotiating advantage?

A. -- THE PRESIDENT AGREED TO MEET IN REYKJAVIK BECAUSE HE IS COMMITTED TO THE PROCESS OF DIALOGUE WHICH BEGAN AT THE GENEVA SUMMIT IN NOVEMBER 1985.

-- HOWEVER, THE MEETING IN REYKJAVIK IS NOT A FORMAL SUMMIT BUT RATHER A PREPARATORY MEETING DESIGNED TO MAKE CONCRETE ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE VISIT OF GENERAL SECRETARY GORBACHEV TO THE U.S.

-- WE FULLY EXPECT THE SOVIETS TO MEET THEIR COMMITMENT TO HOLD A SUMMIT MEETING IN THE U.S. OUR CURRENT EFFORTS ARE FOCUSED ON MAKING THAT SUMMIT A PRODUCTIVE AND POSITIVE MEETING.

DECLASSIFIED

DECLASSIFIED

Q. The scheduling of this meeting came as a surprise to many both inside and outside the Administration and there appeared to be insufficient time to adequately prepare. Isn't there a risk of having the two leaders meet under such conditions, i.e., without a full and prepared agenda?

A. -- WE HAVE REPEATEDLY STATED OUR INTEREST IN PRODUCTIVE MEETINGS AND HAVE WORKED TO ACHIEVE CONCRETE RESULTS IN ALL OUR CONTACTS WITH THE SOVIETS.

-- THE UPCOMING MEETING IS PART OF A PROCESS DESIGNED TO PRODUCE SUCH RESULTS AND MAY PROVE PARTICULARLY USEFUL AT THIS STAGE IN OUR RELATIONS WITH THE SOVIETS.

-- WE ARE NOT GOING INTO THIS MEETING COLD. WE HAVE LONG BEEN READY FOR A THOROUGH REVIEW OF U.S.-SOVIET RELATIONS. WE KNOW WHAT WE WANT TO ACCOMPLISH. WE BELIEVE THE OBSTACLES TO PROGRESS HAVE BEEN WELL IDENTIFIED THROUGH THE INTENSIVE WORK PROGRAM WE HAVE HAD UNDER WAY SINCE MID-SUMMER.

DECLASSIFIED

DECLASSIFIED

Q. Both Soviet and American officials have mentioned several areas in which they see promise for progress, such as INF, CW, and, on the Soviet side, nuclear testing. However, the Administration claims that no agreements are expected at this meeting. Will these issues be discussed? Does the U.S. intend to put forth any new proposals on arms control?

A. -- WE HOPE THAT OUR INFORMAL DISCUSSIONS WILL HELP GENERAL SECRETARY GORBACHEV AND THE PRESIDENT FIND PROMISING VENUES OUR NEGOTIATORS CAN FOLLOW IN PREPARATION FOR A FUTURE SUMMIT MEETING IN THE U.S.

DECLASSIFIED

DECLASSIFIED

Q. What action does the Administration plan to take if the Reykjavik meeting is a "failure?"

A. -- WE ARE NOT APPROACHING THIS MEETING WITH FAILURE IN MIND.

-- THIS MEETING IS AN OPPORTUNITY FOR A FRANK AND FREE-WHEELING DISCUSSION OF THE ISSUES WHICH CONCERN BOTH OUR COUNTRIES. WE HOPE OUR MEETINGS WILL REVEAL AREAS OF POTENTIAL AGREEMENT WHICH BOTH SIDES WILL WORK HARD TO DEVELOP IN PREPARATION FOR A FUTURE SUMMIT IN THE U.S.

DECLASSIFIED

RELEASE OF YURIY ORLOV

Q. Was the release of Yuriy Orlov related to the Daniloff affair?

A. -- NO. THERE WAS NO CONNECTION BETWEEN THESE TWO RELEASES. THE RELEASE OF THE ORLOVS WAS TIED TO CASE OF CONVICTED SPY GENNADI ZAKHAROV.

-- THIS IS NOT THE FIRST TIME THAT WE HAVE TRADED SOVIET SPIES FOR DISSIDENTS. AS THE PRESIDENT SAID LAST WEEK, WE WOULD PREFER TO EXCHANGE CONVICTED SPIES FOR DISSIDENTS AND PEOPLE WHO WANT TO LEAVE THE SOVIET UNION, RATHER THAN GIVE THEM ROOM AND BOARD HERE IN OUR JAILS.

DECLASSIFIED

DECLASSIFIED

Q. Why Yuriy Orlov?

A. -- MR. ORLOV WAS ONE OF THE FOUNDERS OF THE HELSINKI MONITORING GROUP AND A PRINCIPAL FIGURE IN THE SOVIET HUMAN RIGHTS MOVEMENT. FOR THE PAST EIGHT YEARS HE HAS SUFFERED GREATLY BECAUSE OF HIS EFFORTS TO IMPROVE HUMAN RIGHTS IN HIS OWN COUNTRY.

-- IN 1984, AFTER COMPLETING A 7 YEAR TERM IN A LABOR CAMP, HE WAS FORCED TO LIVE FAR AWAY FROM HIS WIFE AND FRIENDS IN A REMOTE SIBERIAN VILLAGE. AS A RESULT OF LONG PERIODS OF SOLITARY CONFINEMENT AND SEVERE BEATINGS, HIS HEALTH HAD DETERIORATED SUBSTANTIALLY.

-- IRINA VALITOVA, MR. ORLOV'S WIFE, SHARED HIS COMMITMENT TO THE HELSINKI PROCESS THROUGHOUT THIS TIME AND HAD SOUGHT IN VAIN TO IMPROVE THE CONDITIONS OF HER HUSBAND'S CONFINEMENT.

-- WE ARE PLEASED TO HAVE BEEN ABLE TO REUNITE THIS PERSECUTED COUPLE IN THE U.S.

DECLASSIFIED

DECLASSIFIED

Q. Why couldn't we get more people out for Zakharov?

A. -- NEGOTIATIONS OF THIS TYPE ARE HIGHLY COMPLEX. MR. ORLOV WAS ONE OF THE MOST PROMINENT DISSIDENTS REMAINING IN THE USSR.

-- I CAN ASSURE YOU THAT OUR EFFORTS ON BEHALF OF THOSE HUMAN RIGHTS ACTIVISTS AND REFUSENIKS STILL IN THE SOVIET UNION WILL CONTINUE.

SOVIET UN MISSION REDUCTIONS

Q. Have we cancelled the order expelling 25 Soviets from the UN?

A. -- THE ORDER STANDS THAT 25 SOVIET UN MEMBERS MUST LEAVE THE
U.S. FOREIGN MINISTER SHEVARDNADZE RAISED SOVIET CONCERNS ABOUT THE TIMING AND WE HAVE GIVEN THOSE SOVIETS STILL HERE A GRACE PERIOD. WE EXPECT ALL 25 TO LEAVE BY THE END OF THE GRACE PERIOD.

DECLASSIFIED

DECLASSIFIED

Q. Did the Soviets reduce to the 218 person ceiling?

A. -- THE SOVIETS REDUCED THE SIZE OF THEIR UN MISSION TO BELOW
THE 218 PERSON CEILING WE HAD REQUIRED BY OCTOBER 1.

Q. How many of the 25 remain in the U.S.?

A. -- AS THE SECRETARY OF STATE SAID LAST TUESDAY, "THE MAJORITY OF THOSE ON THE LIST WE GAVE THEM HAVE LEFT."

-- F.Y.I. - AS OF OCTOBER 6, 11 OF THE ORIGINAL 25 REMAIN IN THE U.S. THIS NUMBER HAS NOT BEEN RELEASED TO THE PUBLIC.

00000600410

03115587030

DECLASSIFIED

Q. Were all 25 spies?

A. -- THE IMPETUS BEHIND OUR REDUCTIONS OF SMUN HAS BEEN TO MAKE THE SIZE OF THE SOVIET MISSION SUFFICIENT FOR ONLY NORMAL
UN BUSINESS

-- THAT SAID, YOU CAN ASSUME THAT MANY OF THOSE ON THE LIST
MAY HAVE BEEN INVOLVED IN QUESTIONABLE ACTIVITIES. FOR MORE
SPECIFICS YOU WOULD HAVE TO DIRECT YOUR QUESTIONS TO THE JUSTICE DEPARTMENT AND THE F.B.I.

03115507030

DECLASSIFIED

Q. Is the Administration willing to use SMUN reductions as a bargaining chip at Reykjavik?

A. -- THE SOVIETS HAVE EXPRESSED A DESIRE TO DISCUSS THE SMUN REDUCTIONS AT REYKJAVIK AND WE EXPECT THIS TOPIC WILL BE PART OF OUR DISCUSSIONS ON A WIDE VARIETY OF BILATERAL ISSUES AFFECTING OUR TWO NATIONS. I WOULD NOT CHARACTERIZE THIS PROGRAM AS A "BARGAINING CHIP."

0313587030

DECLASSIFIED

Q. When will the next phase of reductions occur?

A. -- THE NEXT PHASE OF REDUCTIONS IS DUE ON APRIL 1, 1987. AT THAT TIME THE SOVIET MISSION TO THE U.N. IS TO BE REDUCED TO 195 MEMBERS. WHEN THE REDUCTIONS ARE COMPLETE IN APRIL 1988, THE SOVIET U.N. MISSIONS WILL BE REDUCED TO A TOTAL OF 170 MEMBERS: 150 FOR THE SOVIET U.N. MISSION, AND 10 MEMBERS EACH FOR THE BYELORUSSIAN AND UKRAINIAN MISSIONS.

0315387030

DECLASSIFIED

Q. What has been the significance of the SMUN reductions?

A. -- WE HAVE SENT A CLEAR MESSAGE TO THE SOVIETS THAT WE WILL NOT ALLOW THE U.N. TO BE A SAFEHAVEN FOR ESPIONAGE. TOWARD THAT END, THE SOVIET UN MISSION HAS BEEN REDUCED AND OUR PROGRAM OF PHASED REDUCTIONS REMAINS ON TRACK.

SOVIET SUBMARINE ACCIDENT

A: -- BASED ON AIR AND WATER SAMPLES TAKEN IN THE AREA, THE DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE HAS REPORTED THAT THUS FAR NO RADIOLOGICAL CONTAMINATION OF THE ENVIRONMENT HAS BEEN DETECTED.

03 JUL 2007

0501000100
Q: Have the Soviets lived up to the recent IAEA "Convention on the Early Notification of a Nuclear Accident"?

A: -- THAT CONVENTION IS NOT YET IN FORCE. THE SOVIETS
HAVE, HOWEVER, SIGNED THE CONVENTION AND HAVE STATED THAT THEY ARE READY TO MAKE PUBLIC ALL NUCLEAR ACCIDENTS WHICH COULD ENTAIL THE DANGER OF TRANSBOUNDARY TRANSFER OF RADIOACTIVE RELEASE. SINCE THERE DOES NOT APPEAR TO HAVE BEEN ANY RADIOACTIVE RELEASE FROM THE SOVIET SUBMARINE, THE SOVIETS WOULD NOT HAVE BEEN OBLIGATED UNDER THE CONVENTION TO REPORT THE INCIDENT.

0600000100
-- WE UNDERSTAND, HOWEVER, THAT THE SOVIETS DID INFORM THE IAEA OF THE ACCIDENT, WHICH SUGGESTS THEY ARE TAKING SERIOUSLY THE PRINCIPLE OF TIMELY NOTIFICATION.

Q: Who can salvage the sunken Soviet sub?

A: -- UNDER GENERAL LAW OF THE SEA PRINCIPLES, THE FLAG STATE OF A SUNKEN WARSHIP RETAINS JURISDICTION OVER THE VESSEL UNLESS THE FLAG STATE ABANDONS IT. THUS, AS A GENERAL PROPOSITION, THE RIGHT OF SALVAGE OF A SUNKEN WARSHIP IS THE FLAG STATE'S.

Q: What constitutes abandonment of a sunken warship?

A: -- UNDER MODERN PRINCIPLES OF INTERNATIONAL LAW, A SUNKEN WARSHIP IS NOT CONSIDERED TO BE ABANDONED WITHOUT THE EXPRESS ABANDONMENT BY THE FLAG STATE OR UNLESS THE CONDUCT OF THE FLAG STATE CLEARLY INDICATES THAT IT NO LONGER INTENDS TO EXERCISE SOVEREIGNTY OVER THE VESSEL.

Q: Do you believe, as the President has stated, that the relatively early notification of the incident indicates that the Soviet Union has learned something since Chernobyl?

A: -- I THINK THE PRESIDENT IS CORRECT IN SPECULATING THAT THE WIDESPREAD CONDEMNATION OF THE SOVIETS' DELAY IN NOTIFYING THE WORLD OF THE CHERNOBYL INCIDENT PLAYED A PART IN THEIR PROMPT NOTIFICATION OF THIS ACCIDENT.

AFGHANISTAN: PARTIAL SOVIET WITHDRAWALS

Q: Do you have any comment on Gorbachev's intention to withdraw six Soviet regiments from Afghanistan. We understand that the withdrawals may be imminent.

A: THE US IS INTERESTED IN A COMPREHENSIVE SOLUTION TO THE WAR IN AFGHANISTAN. THE MAIN OBSTACLE TO A POLITICAL SETTLEMENT IS SOVIET REFUSAL TO PRESENT A REALISTIC WITHDRAWAL TIMETABLE AT GENEVA FOR THE COMPLETE WITHDRAWAL OF THEIR TROOPS FROM AFGHANISTAN.

AFGHANISTAN: PARTIAL SOVIET WITHDRAWALS

Q: Gorbachev has characterized his intention to withdraw six regiments from Afghanistan as a concrete step which requires reciprocation to hasten a political settlement? Is the US/Pakistan prepared to reciprocate? If not, why not?

A: THE USG HAS ALREADY AGREED TO SUPPORT A COMPREHENSIVE SETTLEMENT. IF THIS PARTIAL WITHDRAWAL IS MEANT TO SIGNAL A WILLINGNESS TO GET ALL SOVIET TROOPS OUT OF AFGHANISTAN, IT IS WELCOME, BUT THE NEXT STEP SHOULD BE A PROMPT TABLING OF A TIMETABLE FOR THE EARLY WITHDRAWAL OF ALL SOVIET FORCES.

AFGHANISTAN: PARTIAL SOVIET WITHDRAWALS

Q: What is your assessment of the six regiments to be withdrawn?

A: OUR PRELIMINARY ASSESSMENT OF THE REGIMENTS TO BE WITHDRAWN LEADS US TO QUESTION WHETHER THERE WILL BE A NET REDUCTION IN SOVIET MILITARY CAPABILITIES IN AFGHANISTAN. FOUR OF THE SIX REGIMENTS - 3 AIR DEFENSE, 1 TANK -- HAVE NOT BEEN ACTIVE IN COMBAT.

THE AFGHAN RESISTANCE CLEARLY HAS NO AIR FORCE; THE SOVIETS' SOLE REMAINING TANK REGIMENT HAS LONG BEEN UNDERSTRENGTH AND ITS TANKS DISPERSED AND LARGELY EMPLOYED IN STATIC DEFENSE ROLES WHERE MORTARS AND MINES WOULD BE MORE APPROPRIATE. I WOULD ALSO NOTE THAT THE SOVIETS HAVE RECENTLY INTRODUCED SIGNIFICANT ADDITIONAL AMOUNTS OF NEW EQUIPMENT.

SINCE 1979, THE SOVIETS HAVE STEADILY ALTERED THEIR FORCE STRUCTURE TO ONE MORE APPROPRIATE TO COUNTER-INSURGENCY. FOR EXAMPLE, THERE HAS BEEN A SIGNIFICANT INCREASE IN THE NUMBER OF SOVIET SPECIAL PURPOSE FORCES, THE SPETSNAZ. THERE ARE NOW SOME 4000 OF THESE HIGHLY TRAINED TROOPS IN AFGHANISTAN, PERHAPS DOUBLE THE 1983 LEVEL.

THE REPORTED WITHDRAWAL OF THE SIX SOVIET REGIMENTS IDENTIFIED BY GORBACHEV MAY SIMPLY BE AN INTEGRAL PART OF THIS CONTINUING SOVIET EFFORT TO RESHAPE ITS ARMY IN AFGHANISTAN INTO A MORE EFFECTIVE ANTI-GUERILLA FORCE.
