DECLASSIFIED

Mr. Henkel, October 4, 1986

Thank you for your briefings on the President's upcoming meeting with General Secretary Gorbachev. The [illegible], coverage and housing information is most helpful to all of us planning to cover the series of meetings between the two leaders.

You have made it clear to all of us that this is a different event; not like Geneva or any other Presidential overseas trip. We all understand that this is not a summit, but rather a planning meeting in which the two leaders will work out the details for a summit in the United States. We also understand that the Soviets and the Icelanders will have a say in coverage plans.

However, this is an event of worldwide importance. The issues to be dealt with here impact on all Americans. There is likely to be a great interest in the United States and throughout the world for coverage of these meetings.

I respect the desire for a "news blackout," however I strongly regret the severe coverage limitations that have been announced for these meetings. I strongly urge the White House to open the arrivals and departures to allow some sort of coverage, and request that a photo opportunity be allowed at the beginning of the second and third meetings.

Although these are just meetings, they are major news events. Having to rerun video from Saturday's morning meeting on Sunday's [illegible] is wrong.

I am also requesting that a briefing be held in Iceland before the departure for Washington on the outcome of these [illegible].

I look forward to your response.

Cordially,

[illegible]
White House Pool Liaison

Mr. William Henkel
Assistant to the President
